

Launch

October 6 was the first day of classes for NVOC. The students came all dressed up and ready to launch into the new school year.

Most of the girls were in attendance while some are still coming back from villages and towns where they spent their summer.

Historically we've graduated 50% of our students, losing half to marriage and other life circumstances. The current cohort started with 30 girls and we're thankful that 23 of them are still with us.

This is the third year of a three year program. In June they will sit for a three day national sewing exam and the students are feeling the pressure already.

Please pray with us that the students :

- would be diligent and learn well,
- would strive for peace in their relationships with each other,
- would have soft hearts to receive the Truth.

Thank you as always for your faithful prayers and support,

Cecilia & Ace
